COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

Increase in motor vehicle excise taxes amounts to $1,827.59 over 1959. This is attributed to more new cars or late model cars being excised.

The Board of Selectmen have approved applying surface treatment to the newly constructed road on Grover Hill. The work will be done within a few days, weather conditions permitting.

From last November until August of this year there were no town relief cases receiving aid that were able to work. However there is now one case and he is being required to work out what aid he receives. His application for assistance is based on the claim that he cannot find work.

A new 9' V-plow and 12' wings are being purchased for the 1952 International truck. The new Frink unit replaces the Wausau plow and frame which is being traded toward the new unit. The trade-in difference is $5,625.00 mounted and ready for work. $3,000.00 is to be paid from the Truck Rental account at time of delivery, the balance to be during 1961. The Selectmen visited nearby towns and looked at both the Frink and Gledhill plows. After investigating the merits of each plow and the experience each town has had with their respective plows the decision was unanimous in favor of the Frink.

Sincerely,
Harold L. Bean

Democrat Candidates Meet Many in Morning Visits Here

Democratic candidate invaded the town of Bethel at dawn last Friday for a day of hand-shaking, answering questions, and informal speaking.

After stopping at those stores which were open before 8:30 a. m., Lucia M. Cormier, running for the U. S. Senate, and gubernatorial hopeful, Congressman Frank M. Coffin, headed for Dick Davis' mill and the Bethel Dowel Corporation. Accompanying them were Murray Thurston, candidate for State Senate, Stan Haakel, for Sheriff, and Addison W. Saunders, for State Legislature.

At the dowel company, Congressman Coffin and Miss Cormier, former Minority Leader in the Legislature, spoke briefly. Coffin pointed to the need of every voter to be well-informed on what the candidates stand for, and he noted Maine's potential in specialized industries of which dowel manufacturing is an example.

Miss Cormier affirmed her interest in education, which she felt should be available to every person who has the ability and the desire to pursue it. "I refer not only to professional fields," she elaborated, "but also to vocational study."

At the Hanover Dowel Company, their next stop, Congressman Coffin mentioned the mutual development of industry and recreation, saying that the new ski areas showed that Maine has the potential of year round recreation as a source of income.

Miss Cormier followed with a statement of her support of better laws for workmen's compensation, a cause which she supported in the Legislature and one which she would continue to support on the national level.

The candidates then piled in to their attack covered cars and returned to the business district where they shook more hands and spoke with citizens before an informal coffee at the home of Mrs. E. B. Tibbette. Among the tuberosus begonia and a varied assortment of colorful squash, they drank coffee, ate fresh doughnuts, learned about campaigns from Fritz Tyler, he and his father have lived under all but four presidents—and discussed the problems of the Bethel area.

Congressman James C. Oliver, up for re-election, arrived from Portland, and talked with various citizens not only about what he has already done for the First District, but also what he hopes to do in the future. The candidates left at noon for Rumford where they continued their program of taking their message to the people.

The Hospital Auxiliary plans for the Bethel Booth at the Rumford Hospital Fair are on display at the American Legion Room window. The theme of the fair is "Testing Time" and the Bethel Booth is called "The Harness Shop." The prizes are in keeping with the idea of leather and are as follows: a tooled leather coffee table, two large hassocks and a desk set.

HUNTING SAFETY
STRESSED AS BIRD SEASON OPENS

On October 1, Maine's hunting season opens on upland game birds—pheasant, partridge, and woodcock. The archery season on deer in Maine opens the same day, October 1. Prospects look bright for a successful season, especially for deer and pheasants. Woodcock hunting should be good, while partridge seem to be plentiful in some areas, scarce in others. The partridge population in Maine is believed to be on the increase, after a period of scarcity.

Last year, there were 51 hunting accidents in Maine, of which nine were fatal. Although most of these occurred during deer season, several were bird hunting accidents. Being going hunting, check your gun to be sure it's clean and in good working order. Don't load until you're actually hunting. Don't take the safety off until you're ready to shoot. Above all, never point at anything you don't intend to kill. Be sure of your target. Over the years, the two most common causes of hunting accidents have been careless handling of firearms and mistaking a person for game. So—have fun but be careful! And good hunting.

GOULD ACADEMY

Chapman Club
The Chapman Club, musical organization at Gould, has announced that the following are new members: Dwight Lord, Linda Paine, Jeff Butterfield, Robin Langley, and Sheila Boston.

Mexico Takes Gould
Gould Academy and Mexico fought an even game most of the game until the final period. The Bruins connected with an perfect for the winning goal on a pass into the end zone from seven yards out. The Bruins got the jump on the Huskies when on the second play of the game, Eli Fourness broke through Gould's left tackle and ran 68 yards to score. The rushing of the extra point failed.

During the rest of the first half, the Gould eleven outplayed the visitors, gaining five first downs to two, but still could not cross the goal line.

In the third period after Gould recovered a Mexico quick kick, they quickly marched for the tying score. A 15 yd. penalty gave them a break and with five plays had reached the two yard line. Here Scott Cummings drove across with a quarterback sneak. The point after failed leaving the teams deadlocked at 6-6.

In the wild fourth quarter, an intercepted pass by Mexico gave them the break that finally resulted in the Bruins to Ferland pass that won the game for the Pintos.

Mexico was stopped most of the time, as they made only four first downs—one in each period. Gould collected seven first downs. Opening game jitters and numerous mistakes had much to do with the Huskies' downfall.

TODAY'S Meditation

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Thursday, September 29

Read Ephesians 2:1-10.

[Stephen] said, Behold, I see the heavens opened, and the Son of man standing on the right hand of God. (Acts 7:56.)

Some Christians, like Stephen, have their eyes turned toward heaven. They draw spiritual power from the heavenly places in Christ Jesus. This clears the vision and gives the Christian his power to be a citizen of two kingdoms. He lives in the world by the help of the Unseen.

I have heard of a church in Stockholm that had no windows in the walls, but one big window in the ceiling. The following invitation to worship in this church appeared in a newspaper: "Come to the church with its window pointing toward heaven." It is a good thing that a church has its window turned toward heaven.

Each person in himself can be like a small church. The light and love and righteousness from heaven can stream down to you and me living on something of the heavenly while living the earthly life.

PRAYER: God, we thank Thee that it is possible for us to turn to Thee for comfort, courage, and spiritual power. Help us to mirror something of the heavenly glory in our earthly life so that we can help advance Thy kingdom on earth. We pray in the name of our Saviour, Amen.

Thought For The Day
The Christian church helps us to draw spiritual power from God almighty.

OLD IRON GEM PANS

We favor modern bakery products, and the commercial companies do outstanding work in producing ready mixes as well as ready-to-eat bakery goods.

However, there are men of dignity and spirit who look from office windows at the end of a rushing day, and recall the fragrant, hot, crusty graham muffins that Mother made long years ago in heavy iron gem pans.

Today's cooks use light weight metals. The era of heavy iron spiders, of heavy kettles that sat in a stove cover hole, and solid iron tea kettles is over. The major of science gives us featherweight utensils for everyday use.

Mother always claimed she could make better gems in heavy iron pans than in aluminum or the modern pans. Many of the old iron pans had eleven cups, two rows of four each and three in the middle. Mother's favorite gem pan weighed five pounds. Some cooks favored deep cups and some liked the round, shallow type of cups.

We do not cherish illusions old iron gem pans have baked hot loaves, buffalo robes and cedar chests. But the memory man still remembers those hot, crusted, flavorful gems. With plenty of home-made butter and a liberal coating of fresh strawberry jam, a 12 year-old cr could use a surprising number as accompaniment to his supper of fried potatoes and slice of home-cured ham.

DEPARTMENT STORE STOCKS A Group that Offers Relatively Good Values in Today's Stock Market

Today the search for good values in common stocks is a difficult one. The writer believes that glamor stocks are rapidly going out of fashion and that the investor must seek out stocks selling at conventionally acceptable price/earnings ratios and offering reasonably generous yields.

In line with this feeling a good case for the purchase of department store stocks can be made. The following reasons might further strengthen our case for the purchase of these issues:

1—Sales of the better department stores have increased almost uninterrupted every year in the past ten years regardless of business recessions.

2—Common stocks of the better department stores have normally shown at least a reasonable resistance to general stock market declines.

3—This business is a growing one and therefore the investor can have the advantage of a limited risk in carefully selected department store equities while at the same time he can anticipate capital gains over the years.

For the investor primarily interested in yield, Allied Stores and Mercantile Stores offer the best return while May Dept. Stores and J. C. Penney have maintained the longest unbroken dividend record. However, the writer feels in today's market it is more important to select dynamic companies which have shown appreciable growth in recent years.

It is interesting to note that Federated Dept. Stores' earnings trend has been up every year since 1953 while Associated Dry Goods and Gimbels have been up every year since 1954. Furthermore, all three of these stores have shown very appreciable increases in earnings and sales over the past five years. These are the companies that we feel are more likely to benefit in the future growth of the U.S. and consequently outperform other stocks in the group.

In the event that we were to experience a business recession of some depth there is no guarantee that department store sales would hold up. However, due to the growth of population, the redistribution of wealth to lower income brackets and the increasing higher standard of living being maintained by the American public, the department store industry is a growth one and one that should be resistant to adjustments in the economy unless they were quite extreme. The three companies recommended, we feel, have their dividends well protected by earnings and unless they experience a severe setback their payments to stockholders should be maintained and eventually increased as the years go on. An investment package of these three stocks gives the investor a return of better than 3 1/2% on his money, relatively good statistical value, some protection against a possible decline in the stock market and an opportunity to eventually realize capital appreciation and increased income.

Grading
During the past 2 weeks the teachers in Union 22 have been reviewing the preliminary report on "Recommended Standards for Grading and Promotion" prepared by the State Curriculum Committee at Augusta.

The preliminary report is the result of an intensive study of state-wide grading and promotion practices. Copies of the report are being circulated among school teachers to obtain their opinions so that the report in final form will reflect the best grading and promotion systems currently in use.

Some of the problems dealt with in the report include: the value of a diploma, grading pupils of different academic levels, the track system and social promotion.

HERE!'61 CHEVY TRUCKS

WITH WORK-PROVED
INDEPENDENT FRONT SUSPENSION!

Chevy's '61 fleet swings in with a ready-made reputation as the trucks that are worth more because they work more... the latest editions of the haulers that scrapped the I-beam axle and proved the important advantages of independent front suspension!

You'll find new models for '61—long-wheelbase 4-wheel drive units—and thoughtful refinements throughout the line. But the big news for '61 is nailed-down proof (based on owner reports) that Chevy's torsion-spring design is the best thing that's happened to trucks in decades!

With Chevy's independent front suspension and Sturd-i-Bilt design, you cruise over trails where other trucks creep. You feel the difference in less wheel lift and vibration. You can see why drivers are happier, why loads are better protected and why the truck itself will stand up to thousands of miles of more work. That goes for any size Chevy, too—pickups, tilt cabs, tandems, all of them.

Check the latest specs with your Chevrolet dealer: capacity, power teams, options. Then, by all means, drive a '61. Once around the block and you'll never be satisfied with a front axle truck again!
